Planning Permissions Galway

Planning Permissions

Obtaining planning permission is a statutory requirement for most new build, extension and conversion projects in Ireland. We have extensive expertise in this area and can prepare full planning application packages on behalf of clients for new build, extension, retention and conversion projects. We can also advise which works do not require planning permissions and can obtain exemption certificates in these instances where required.